We have a lot of maps online here, with links to others that can be purchased.

Click here (<http://www.ambergriscaye.com/maps/>) for a large list of maps.

It contains these maps:

A map of the Southern USA, Caribbean & Central America with travel routes to Belize.

A great map of Belize with many roads and parks marked. Click here for a second great map of Belize.

A geographical relief map of Belize and the surrounding area.

A geographical relief map of the Bay of Chetumal and the northern area of Belize including Ambergris Caye.

A detailed map of many of the businesses of Ambergris Caye and the downtown area, plus maps covering north of town and south of town.

A great map of the island by Sal Mazzullo, PhD, who has studied the geography of the island for decades.

One of Dr. Sal's maps, this one of the dive sites in the area. Purchasable 2X3 feet.

One of Dr. Sal's maps of the localities/ geographical areas of Ambergris Caye. Purchasable 2X3 feet.

One of Dr. Sal's maps of Belize, very detailed and with many Maya sites marked. Purchasable nine by eleven inches.

A very detailed map of the island area and the lagoon to the west.

A map of the southern end of the island around San Pedro.

A map of many of the streets downtown, with some businesses marked.

Maps are purchasable at <http://IslandBazaar.net>. Maps for much of Central America are available.

The Belize Economics & Investment Guide. Also has a maps page.

Download an awesome map of the island. Courtesy of Triton Properties, it is a 1.2 mb file that is suitable for printing. The map is 10 inches by 16 inches and 150 dpi. It is in JPEG format, so load into Photoshop or other image manipulation software. Will not load into browser (Netscape). Too big of an image.

See a map of the island with dive sites marked. Shows mangroves, reef sand flats, and reef crests as well as the land areas.

The 1/2 mile from the beachline to the reefline has an abundance of wonders.

A detailed list of the various mammals, invertebrates, fish, birds, and other creatures that inhabit these waters can be read by clicking here.

A thorough examination of the plant life on and around the island. The tree, bushes, underwater grasses, a botanical sweep of the island...
