Greetings to my visiting friends

On behalf of the people of San Pedro Town, I extend a warm welcome to all visitors arriving to our shores. I assure you that your trip to "La Isla Bonita" will be no ordinary vacation. Our island is famous for its rich cultural diversity, where Mestizos, Creole and Garinagu blend to form a unique encounter. While here, I encourage you to explore the Caribbean Sea and find Belize's abundant treasures.

Hol Chan Marine Reserve and Shark-Ray Alley are just two of the many spots where you can enjoy our coral reef formation and abundant and breathtaking sea life. San Pedro is also home to world-class fishing and scuba diving.

For the more adventurous, "La Isla Bonita" offers a wide array of water sports and for those looking to get a glimpse of the mystical world of the Maya, these historical ruins are just a short expedition away. You will also be able to discover Belize's vast cave systems and many natural sanctuaries that are home to our country's unique flora and fauna.

Whether you are spending your honeymoon at an exclusive resort or looking for an adventurous, yet romantic escape, San Pedro is surely the place to be. I invite you to explore our home and see the many wonders it has to offer.

We welcome you with open arms. Bienvenidos a San Pedro!

Elsa Paz, Mayor,
San Pedro Town

Christos - Casual Greek dining on La Isla Bonita

Located where Tastes of Thailand formerly was, Christo's now offers an authentic Greek dining experience for the discerning palate. Christo Savvo of Cyprus, Greece, spent four of his thirteen years honing his Greek culinary skills in a most unlikely place: Canada.

While most of his cooking is self-taught, Savvos drew on his Greek roots to improve upon favorites from his childhood, as well as from the classic Greek dishes that everyone seems to love! For Christo, cooking has been a means for a living, and he now brings his culinary talents to the tourism Mecca of Belize, La Isla Bonita!

For us, it was a true "it's Greek to me!"

experience when we converged upon Christo's restaurant, and in an ode to true Mediterranean dining, our night was fun, expansive and full of laughter and sharing. Wine flowed freely, and conversation followed suit. It seemed we were following standard Mediterranean dining protocol, where "wine is not only a part of every meal, but a part of life!" Words could not ring truer for that evening, and we knew we were off to a good start!

A fun and candid conversation with our waitress, Patricia, brought to light just how chance had a lot to play in Christo's coming to San Pedro. She was watching one of HGTV's most popular shows, "House Hunters" and this particular episode was based on house hunting in Ambergris Caye, Belize, and for her, it was the ideal place to move as well. She decided that her stint as a teller at a Canadian bank was over, and she would much rather spend her time at our island paradise. She convinced her friends of eight years, Leanne and Christo, to move with her as well! Being the good friends that they were, they house hunted a bit for themselves as well, and decided to take over the reins at an established restaurant spot, and incorporate Greek dining into the San Pedro community.

Thus, Christo's came to be, and we couldn't have been happier. Having established itself as a unique dining spot, Christo's offers a menu that beckons and teases. Meals sound strange and exotic, and choosing which dish better suits each palate is an adventure in itself while the accompanying wine heightens the experience. A standard rule when dining out is having fun, and making the most of the time spent together. Thus, we decide on a communal dining experience.

Sharing appetizers such as Saganaki, Manidaria Yemista, Kalamari and Spanakopita meant being able to share a meal with unheard of names, amongst the bravest of friends. Thankfully, brief descriptions of each item were available on the menu, and thus we weren't ordering blindly! Plus, the smells emanating from the kitchen were so heavenly, we would have been quite happy to have our orders decided for us. At the gentle coaching of Patricia, we end up with tasty sounding appetizers. We also make sure to peruse the dinner menu, deciding on both the rack of lamb and lamb chops, plus the classic Moussaka (MOO-sah-kah) and an order of Dolmathes.

Our appetizers arrive (along with more wine) and we are eager to try out our first taste of Greek cuisine. The Kalamari is just what it sounds like, crunchy and crisp squid that has been deep fried to a golden brown. Accompanied by a delicious tzatziki sauce consisting of yogurt, cucumbers and mint, it is a refreshing, palate-cleansing start to our meal. This was followed by the favorite of yours truly, the Saganaki – or put simply, a battered, deep fried slice of feta cheese drizzled in Olive oil. Each bite was crunchy and creamy; the tangy, sharp feta was a delight! One simply cannot go wrong with deep fried cheese!

A quick bite of the Spanakopita explains why it is disappearing from the plate so quickly! A spinach and Feta mixture is wrapped in paper thin layers of puffy Phyllo (Fee-loh), combining for a savory pastry. Yum! Up next are the mushrooms, or the Manidaria Yemista. Button mushrooms are stuffed with a cream cheese, spinach and green onion mixture and baked. Once again, the palate feels cleansed and refreshed. A crisp white wine helps the process along as well! We're ready for the main course!

While we wait a bit longer for the main dishes to arrive, we continue our conversation with Patricia, who regales us with her fun stories and experiences on the island, which she has come to love and cannot see herself leaving. She also explains that the lamb takes a bit of time to prepare, and as a recommendation for any potential diner, do plan to wait a while for this particular dish. If the conversation and wine are equally good, waiting won't seem like such a hardship!

By the time our wine glasses were being refilled, our meals were ready.

(top) A Greek version of the Shepherd's pie, the Moussaka is a rich beef and eggplant mixture topped with potatoes. (1) The pork Souvlaki is a standard kebab elevated to Mediterranean status with special herbs and spices.

The smells were delicious, and as the plates arrived at our table, we knew we were in for a fabulous treat! Our dishes were the Moussaka, Dolmathes, Souvlaki and two cuts of lamb. A first bite of the Moussaka confirms why it is such a classic. Fragrant herbs permeate every aspect of the dish, from the creamy, almost nutty, potatoes, to the rich beef and eggplant mixture. A Greek version of the Shepherd's pie, Christo's Moussaka portions are enormous, and accompanied by a traditional salad, the meal is fit for two.

The Dolmathes. Grape leaves were stuffed with minced pork, rice and a blend of herbs and spices. This was truly a first, and while the ingredients sounded safe individually, their combination made for a truly tasty and unique flavor. A great choice for first timers, and for a safety net, the herbed roast potatoes offer a touch of the familiar, easing one into the dining experience.

Belizean cuisine does not often call for lamb. It is however, a standard of Greek kitchens, and naturally, we had to try the rack of lamb and lamb chops on the offer. These cuts were obtained locally (within Belize) and therefore, fresh are truly tasty! It was a first for a few of us gathered around the table, but it was a pleasant experience. Both cuts of the lamb were tender and well spiced, buttery and tasty. The spices were not too overpowering, rather, they further brought out the delightful flavor of the lamb, which was a cross between pork and beef, with a touch of venison. Slivers of lamb were accompanied by roast potatoes and a bit of red wine, combining for a delicious culinary experience. Everyone had to agree, lamb was a great choice, and highly recommended.

The special of the night was Souvlaki, and we opted for the pork. It was basically a kebab, with chunks of pork, tomato and onion grilled to perfection, and drizzled with the Mediterranean staple: olive oil. They were accompanied by crispy oregano fries (ah, the homage to the familiar!) One can have either the chicken or lamb as well, if pork isn't the ideal choice.

Our feast was quite delightful, and our palates were further piqued when desert time came up. Now, having brushed up on our Greek cuisine, research showed that the Baklava (Bakla-vah) was the dessert to try! The Daktyla was also beckoning us, and we decide to try out both, since our diets were shot already!

Accompanied by rich, creamy coffee, the Baklava arrived and we were not disappointed. Layers of Phyllo pastry were filled with walnuts and sweet honey syrup, and baked to a golden perfection. Each bite was an explosion of tastes, and while sweet, it was not cloying. The daktyla was a delicious fried pastry, filled with almonds – they were almond fingers, and so delicious, we ate a handful! It was a perfect ending to a delightful meal.

Christo's offers a new culinary experience to our area, and is well on its way to establishing itself as the place to enjoy a fun and exotic meal. Located on Seagrape Drive, about a ¼ mile south of town, Christo's delivers Greek food in a cozy ambiance, bringing a touch of the Mediterranean to our island lifestyle.

Coffee and dessert top off an already wonderful night. Baklava and Daktyla provide a satisfying sweetness.

Chaa Creek's Pioneering spirit soars high

San Ignacio, Cayo District, 5 Nov, 2007: Ninety Five year old Marjorie Hagan has an unquenchable appetite for adventure. Earlier this year she was in India riding elephants. Last week she was one of the first guests to experience Chaa Creek's new helicopter transfer service. Mrs Hagan was at Chaa Creek on an extended celebration of her 95th birthday in October.

"I enjoyed the flight, but I also miss riding the elephants in India," Mrs Hagan chuckled as the helicopter landed at the Lodge at Chaa Creek's Helipad.

Living up to its true pioneering spirit, the Lodge at Chaa Creek has joined with Astrum Helicopters, a local helicopter transfer company, to give guests an innovative and thrilling sight-seeing tour of Belize's attractions while being transferred to the Lodge.

According to Gustavo Giron Jr, President of Astrum Helicopters, the company offers guests two transfer options to Chaa Creek from the Philip Goldson International Airport – via a direct route or via the Maya Mountains and the 1,000 ft Falls.

Exploring the first option, guests can sit back and enjoy the picture perfect view of the mainland as they soar over lagoons, creeks and villages. The flight first takes them over Macklehanny and Cox Lagoons. There they can see Black Howler Monkeys swinging from the trees and Jabiru Storks – the largest flying birds in the Americas – wading in the marshes. Suddenly, they find themselves gliding over the Belize River with its many twists and turns while their newly found birds' eye view scans the quaint villages of Camalote, Ontario and Cristo Rey, which dot the unspoiled mainland of the Cayo District.

The second option takes guests over lagoons, sinkholes, river and caves. Their flight path soars above the winding Sibun River, the green expanse of Belize's mountainous rainforests and famous bathing spots such as Freetown Sibun, Butcher Burns, Cedar Bank and Gracy Rock Bank. The flight path includes Caves Branch, an area that encompasses 58,000 acres that are situated beneath a 100 ft rainforest canopy and bordered by the turquoise waters of the Caves Branch River and the deep forest of the Mountain Pine Ridge.

Guests will be treated to a stunning full view of the splashing 1,000 ft Falls, the largest waterfall in Belize and Central America. The flight then heads west as it glides over the lush Mountain Pine Ridge where guests can see up to 6 additional waterfalls before arriving at The Lodge at Chaa Creek.

The company uses the Bell 206 Jet Ranger helicopter, which can accommodate 4 passengers and the Bell 206 Long Ranger helicopter, which can accommodate 6 passengers. All transfers can originate from Belize International Airport, Municipal Airport or Cisco Base for the same price.

In addition to making transfers for Chaa Creek, the company also provides charters to any destination in Belize.

Asked why Astrum Helicopters decided to partner with Chaa Creek, Gustavo said: "Chaa Creek is a unique, world class resort. Its accommodations are excellent and our transfers give value for money to Chaa Creek's guests as they can enjoy a faster transfer to Chaa Creek while enjoying Belize's attractions from a unique and different perspective."

"Our flight department staff is committed to providing our clients with efficient, convenient and safe responses to their transportation needs. Our pilots have logged over several thousand hours of flight time. Our management team and pilots all have more than 25 years of aviation experience," Giron said.

The Lodge at Chaa Creek is a pioneer in natural history travel since 1981. The joint partnership with Astrum Helicopters now takes Chaa Creek's pioneering spirit to new heights and elevates its efforts to provide its guests with an adventurous and unforgettable visit to Chaa Creek.

Wolfe's Woofers by Dennis Wolfe

Kindness to a stranger

"Ernie, do you have a check for me?"

"Charlene has it with her and she's gone to run some errands," he said. "She'll only be gone for a few minutes if you want to wait."

At 10:30 in the morning, there was no one else in BC's Beach Bar but Ernie and I. As I sat down to wait, a tourist came walking up the beach. As he got closer to the bar I noticed he had no arms.

"What will it be, sir?" Ernie asked.

"I'll have a Belikin beer."

Ernie sat the beer in front of the customer and waited to see how he would drink it. The man gripped the bottle opening with his teeth and tilted his head back. He got a taste of beer but some of it ran out of the corners of his mouth.

"Hold on a minute," Ernie said.

He held the beer up to the man's lips and he drank half of it in one swallow. Ernie gave him another drink and he polished off the beer.

"Thanks," the man said. "I was really thirsty."

"Wait a minute," Ernie said, taking a napkin from the tray.

He patted the man's lips and dried them.

"Ah, thank you so much," the tourist said. "People are often not as kind to me as you are."

"Here at BC's we are always willing to help," Ernie said. "That will be four dollars."

The man stood up and turned away from the bar.

"My wallet is in my pocket," he said. "Please take three of the two-dollar bills and keep one of them for your trouble."

"Thank you," Ernie said, as he put the wallet back in the man's pocket.

As the man turned to leave he said, "Oh, one more thing; where is the bathroom?"

Ernie said, "See that building right by the dock? That's the Blue Water Grill. They have bathrooms over there."
