Dining on the water: Blue Lotus Restaurant!

The views from Blue Lotus are spectacular. Watch the lights as they flicker on the west-ward side of the island.

To the west of Ambergris Caye, a complete oasis unsurpassed by no man-made island lies on its own; a other. Brahma Blue promises to be a haven for the discerning taste with its vision of sixty two luxurious condos, a spa/holistic retreat, and all the amenities one could possibly need. Brahma Blue plans to open their doors in early February; however, already creating quite a buzz is Blue Lotus, Brahma Blue's five-star Indian-Caribbean dining.

Blue Lotus is an elegant, above the water dining experience that puts you one-on-one with nature. Recently opened on New Year's Eve, this is a place where you enjoy beautifully presented and scrumptious meals while basking in the stunning views of Ambergris Caye; listen to the island life stirring in your surroundings or enjoy the marine life below the dock. It is a true treat and a completely different vision seeing Ambergris Caye lit up from the west-ward side. Long and stretching for as far as the eye can see, Watch as the Chef prepares the naan that you will delight in. Flattened and spiced with garlic and coriander, the naan is placed on the tandoor to gently crisp. Tasting almost like pizza, minus the pepperoni, naan is very addictive and you can't stop at one slice once it is presented at the table (inset).

the Caribbean isle glows with the beauty of its flickering lights as it throbs with life.

Getting to Blue Lotus is easy, whether it is for lunch or dinner, or their highly anticipated, soon to come brunch, this new restaurant offers daily, four minute rides back and forth from San Pedro Town, absolutely free of charge. The pontoon boat leaves the Thunderbolt dock on Angel Coral Street at 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. The short boat ride is accentuated by the amazing sunset. Words cannot describe the beauty emanating from the skies as the warm orange glow of the sun is spread through the darkening heavens. Simply gorgeous!

Once you set foot at Blue Lotus your journey immediately begins. The scents emanating from the bar and kitchen area immediately transport you to a distant land, one that you will experience through their renowned Indian chefs. Blue Lotus' chefs pride themselves in using all natural healing spices such as cardamom, cloves, coriander, fenugreek, fennel and nut-

to sit, your view will be completely unobstructed, leaving you in awe as you dine. The Indian dining experience forms a very important part of the Indian culture. Of course it plays a huge role in every day life but meals are usually a big family, sit-down affair. These consist of two to three main course dishes, varied accompaniments such as chutneys and pickles, and staples such as rice and naan (A flat, leavened bread of northwest India, made of white flour and baked in a tandoor), as well as desserts.

Diversity in the Indian cuisine is a defining feature of India's geography, culture and food. As with many countries, their cuisine varies from region to region and Blue Lotus is comprised mostly of Northern Indian cuisine but with a subtle Caribbean touch. Sonny, one of the three partners in the Blue Lotus venture, explains that many of the spices are imported but when combined with the fresh fruits and seafood available on the island, the marriage is a complete Indian experience.

As you await your meal, enjoy one of the many special Blue Lotus cocktails mixed by bar master David who has years upon years of experience. There are many choices but the Jewel of India is really a delightful treat. Vodka and pomegranate liquor are gently stirred with other ingredients more than happy to invite you over and watch as the Chef prepares the naan that you will delight in. Flattened and spiced with garlic and coriander, the naan is placed on the tandoor to gently crisp. Tasting almost like pizza, minus the pepperoni, naan is very addictive and you can't stop at one slice. Ruby explains the use of the tandoor as instrumental for the Indian cuisine, "It cooks everything very fast as it has a temperature of 600 °F. It seals in the juices and keeps the flavor of the meats cooked in."

For this Indian travel, we begin with Tandoori Chicken Tikka which simply translates to boneless chicken bites marinated with mild spices skewered and cooked in the tandoor. In Indian cuisine chutneys are part of most meals and for the Chicken Tikka we have a choice of the mint-coriander or mango chutney. Both are slightly spicy but compliment the chicken bites effortlessly. The Seekh Kebab follows, also skewered meat, this one is prepared with minced prime rib beef, marinated with Kashmiri spices and grilled in the tandoor. Ruby explains the health benefits of cooking on the clay oven, "The minced beef is already lean but as it cooks in the oven, the fats all melt to the bottom of the oven making the meat healthier." The Vegetable Samosa (pastry deep fried and stuffed with mildly spiced vegetables) and Vegetable Pakora (deep fried graham flour and vegetable fritters) are a combination of what you the Rogan Josh. Want a taste of seafood? Well, the Bombay Saffron Shrimp Curry is right for you. Enjoy jumbo shrimp sautéed to perfection in Blue Lotus's own spicy blend. Combined with saffron and curry sauce the shrimp are served over a bed of fresh coriander Basmati rice. The Goan Fish is traditionally Western Indian cuisine which is categorized by its heavy use of rice, coconut and fish. Blue Lotus' version is medium spiced fresh snapper cooked in the goan curry sauce. For those looking for chicken, you have got to try the favorite of many: the Lotus Butter Chicken is the way to go – chunks of chicken fillet marinated, of course, with a delicious blend of spices, grilled in the tandoor. Once cooked in the oven, it is sautéed in almond butter cream curry and served over Saffron Basmati rice anointed with fresh basil. Wow! That is all that can be said, you have never had chicken quite like this before.

Other dishes include the Lobster Masala, lobster meat flavored with Brandy; Tandoori Mango Chicken, or the minced prime beef balls mixed with fresh herbs and nuts found in the Malai Kofta Curry.

To end a delicious meal try the Gulab Jamun, which are milk dumplings in sugar syrup that are served warm with coconut ice cream; or try their amazing home made mango ice-cream!

Lunch at Blue Lotus is a wonderful experience too. Boats leave at 11:30 a.m., 12:15 and 1:30 p.m. Visit them for an array of

Wolfe's Woofers by Dennis Wolfe

Popcorn Turkey

"Hello," I said, as I answered the phone. "Dennis speaking."

"It's me."

"Me, who?"

"Your wife," Dulce said. "Do you mean you still can't recognize my voice on the phone after all these years?"

"Which wife? First, second or third?"

"The one you're still married to, you jerk," she said.

"Take it easy," I told her. "I was just joking. What's up?"

"I'm over here at the office and I'm working on the new edition of my cookbook. Janice Morin sent me a recipe for turkey sometime around Christmas and I want to see if it is something I can use in the book. I filed it, but I never read it."

"I thought that Cooking With an Attitude was all local recipes," I said. "Janice lives in Canada."

"You seem to forget that she lived here for almost twenty years," Dulce said.

"Find the file on the computer and read it off to me."

"O.K." I said, when I found the file. "Listen up and write this down."

"All right."

"Ingredients," I said. "You need an eight to fifteen pound turkey, 1 cup of melted butter, 1 cup of stuffing and 1 cup of uncooked popcorn."

"Popcorn? Are you sure?"

"That's what it says here."

"O.K. Keep reading."

"Salt and pepper the turkey to taste and preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Brush the turkey with melted butter, salt and pepper. Fill the body cavity with stuffing and popcorn."

"Are you making this up?" Dulce asked. "Is this a joke?"

"I'm just reading Janice's recipe."

"O.K. How do you tell when the turkey is done?"

"It says, place the turkey in a baking pan with the neck end toward the back of the oven. Listen for the popping sound. When the turkey's ass blows the oven door open and the bird flies across the room, it's done."
